Waterfront Lots For South Pender

Two new waterfront property subdivisions are under way at South Pender Island.

New roads are being driven into the site of 18 new lots which are almost ready for disposal. The subdivision will later be extended to the point overlooking Bluden Island. The lots provide a view of Mount Baker and the water.

Second subdivision is on Plummer Sound.

The projects will bring a new surge of residents to South Pender, among the least developed of the Gulf Islands. It is expected that the developments will bring both permanent and summer homes.

Speeded Up In His Running

North Saanich boys are fleet of foot. But they are not quite as fast runners as The Review indicated last week.

Untutored, unlettered and unathletic reportorial staff of this newspaper confused metres with some more orthodox unit of measurement. As a result The Review had Lynn Eves of Patricia Bay travelling 200 metres with times of 10.8 and 22.3.

A vigilant but aging reader of The Review who is secretly practising in an effort to outpace Lynn Eves has pointed out the error. The first time quoted was established by the youthful runner over the 100-metre course. In other words he ran half as fast as indicated in the last issue of this paper. The 22.3 time was correct for his 200-metre run.

SUMMER CAMP FOR SIDNEY AIR CADETS

Sixteen cadets from Sidney (Kinsmen) Air Cadet Squadron will attend summer camp at Sea Island R.C.A.F. station from August 2 until August 15. They are Doug Alexander, Cliff Burrows, Bill Chatterton, Cliff Dawson, Bill Forscutt, Ian Kelly, Bruce Kissinger, Donald Locke, Erich Luftmann, Peter Spear, Bruce Tennant, Cliff Turley, Ricky Tyre, Norman Watling, Gordon Wright, Gerry Byre.

The boys will leave Sidney at 5 a.m. on Sunday, accompanied by W. de Macedo, civilian instructor with the squadron. They will travel up-island by bus and take the ferry from Nanaimo.

Ambulance Drive All Set For Thursday Evening

Ambulance drive sponsored by the Sidney Kinsmen Club will take place on Thursday evening when canvassers will call on homes throughout Sidney and North Saanich. Purpose of the campaign is to raise funds to completely pay for the new emergency ambulance provided for the district by the club and to provide many additional items of equipment in order to prepare the ambulance for any kind of rescue work.

The ambulance has been purchased by the club from Rest Haven hospital and is now the property of the district with its title vested in the Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department. The firemen will man the vehicle and provide a 24-hour emergency service.

New vehicle was christened within hours of its being handed over, when three emergency calls were answered in as many days.

Members of the Kinsmen Club, firemen and other volunteers will canvass the district in an effort to close the campaign which was opened a year ago.

Residents whose homes are missed are invited to send a donation to the Sidney Kinsmen Ambulance Fund, P.O. Box 273, Sidney.

NOT A BIT OF ENGLAND!

WHAT BRINGS TOURISTS TO THIS DISTRICT VISITORS ARE ASKED

What brings the flood of tourists to Vancouver Island? Why do visitors throng to Saanich Peninsula? What is the appeal to a stranger of the Gulf Islands? Residents who know the district already recognize its attractions, but what is the call to the visitor? Conducting a poll of tourists passing through Sidney on their way home via the Anacortes ferry, The Review learned that few had discovered the "little bit of Old England" and tea and crumpets was almost unknown.

All those who were contacted were impressed with the beauty of the area, while the odd tourist also remarked that "lower Government Street gave them the impression they had found a part of England".

M. Bower, Yakima, Wash., stated that he and his family came to Vancouver Island at his wife's request, as she had not been here before and had heard of the beauty

Calypso Takes Calypso

—At Ganges

When a missing Vancouver sports cruiser was stolen it was recovered by a Saanich couple in a small vessel of the same name.

On Monday afternoon the Calypso, a 16-foot outboard sports fishing boat was recovered in Ganges Harbor by Const. Harry Bonner, of the Ganges detachment, R.C.M.P. The property of Dr. F. C. Preston, it had been stolen on July 3.

The couple discovering the boat declined to give their names. They reported that they had been passing Light Island when they observed the other boat. Not only did it bear the same name, but it resembled their own craft. The couple had been made aware of the theft when questions were asked regarding their own boat.

The police were notified and Const. Bonner went out to recover it. The juvenile in the boat appeared relieved to have been apprehended, onlookers remarked. The vessel was heavily laden with cans of gasoline and other supplies.

Members of St. John's United church couple's club, Deep Cove, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gardner on Sunday, July 26, to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. R. Hallock who are returning to live in Portland, Ore. A painting of Patricia Bay, by Dr. Armstrong, was presented to them.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Freeman and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. Hardingham and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. Abbott and family; Mr. and Mrs. W. Stewart and family; Mr. and Mrs. R. Hallock and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. Gardner and family. Invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. Anderson and family and R. McLennan.

SAANICH WILL BE THERE

When Bennett Burns His Bonds

Saanich constituency will be represented at Premier Bennett's razzle-dazzle "bond-fire" at Kelowna on Saturday of this week when millions of dollars worth of bonds will be consigned to the flames. And moreover, Saanich constituency will be well advertised among the teeming thousands attending the fete in the Okanagan city.

Lewis Harvey of North Saanich, first vice-president of the Saanich Social Credit League, will attend the gala festivities. He will drive there with Harry Brown of Oak Bay, another staunch Social Credit. They will leave at dawn on Thursday to be present when the torch is put to the funeral pyre.

But Mr. Harvey's decision to attend was made in such haste that he did not have time to prepare suitable signs to be carried on the car, proclaiming that Saanich constituency is represented. So The Review, as a public service, quickly printed suitable signs which Mr. Harvey has promised to mount on the car. They show only the word "Saanich" in great, big type.

When the last members of the fire have fanned out, Mr. Harvey will continue his journey eastward, visiting in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and as far as Ontario. So it will be some time before he's able to report back here in person on the success of the Social Credit show.

George Henderson, London, Ont., on holiday to the province, remarked he liked the large, green trees and the variety which he did not see in his part of Ontario.

The cooler summers and the warmer winters would attract him to live here but he pointed out that land here is valued too highly. He continued that he could purchase a good house in the London area for $7,000-$8,000. He was surprised at the lack of sidewalks around the area. In his home community, he said, people all walk on sidewalks unless they are forced by snow to take to the road.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Collins, Oakland, Calif., were very impressed with the beauty of the Peninsula. She said, "I have just spent the most beautiful day of my life. If I were younger I would buy a truck, a boat and a fishing pole and spend the rest of my life here".

Commenting further, she remarked that the last two days were the first she had spent this year without wearing dark glasses. The green countryside, well-kept farms and the manner in which every-

Plan For Ferry Offered

Compromise solution on the problem of traffic to the outer Gulf Islands has been reached by the provincial department of highways. Pender Islanders were advised on Wednesday.

The department will recommend to the cabinet next Monday that the Motor Princess be taken off the Fulford run on Mondays and Thursdays to load traffic for Pender Island, returning to Fulford and resuming her normal Fulford-Swartz Bay service.

The proposal represents solely a recommendation. It is not a concrete plan at the present time.

Model Given Award

L.A.C. Clifford Dawson, of the Sidney (Kinsmen) Air Cadet Sqdn., has been awarded an honorable mention for his entry in the R.C.A.F. model plane contest staged earlier in the year.

Only member of the local squadron to compete, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dawson, Third St., Sidney, was among hundreds of contestants across the Dominion to build and submit a model of a Siskin.

Paper Wanted

Sidney Amateur Radio Club is sponsoring a paper drive to raise funds for equipment. Residents having waste newspapers they wish to contribute may phone John MacConnachie at GR 5-2164 for pick-up. Magazines are not sought as they cannot be disposed of.

92ND YEAR

N. E. Watts, who resides with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. Pearson, Sixth St., celebrated his 92nd birthday on Saturday, July 25. Mr. Watts is known to many residents in the district.

New Emergency Ambulance

Recently standing by the new emergency ambulance are C. W. Tyler, president of Sidney Kinsmen Club (centre), while Fire Chief G. A. Gardner is behind the wheel. On the left is Gerry Flint, chairman of the Kinsmen ambulance committee, which raised the funds to acquire the new ambulance. To the right is A. G. Rodgers, administrator of Rest Haven hospital, from whom the vehicle was purchased. The ambulance has already been handed over to the Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department and has been used on several occasions. On Thursday evening canvassers will cover North Saanich homes in an effort to raise funds to completely equip the new vehicle.

New Customs Port of Call Brings Activity To Pender

South Pender has never been busier. With the first season of a customs port located at Bedwell Harbor has come an unprecedented stream of traffic. Yachts and yachtsmen who formerly were wont to sail around the island are now calling in as a matter of course and many have expressed their pleasure at having called there.

The island has gained a new look this year. The property which accompanies the new customs establishment has necessitated services hitherto unsought. Last June saw the sale of the Bedwell store to Mr. and Mrs. George Novak. Formerly Pritchard's Store, the business now offers the merchandizing already established there in addition to a marine service.

Mr. Novak was born in Poland. When the Nazis invaded Poland he escaped and made his way to the outside. Crossing Europe, he arrived in Italy to board a vessel for Halifax. At Halifax he joined a Polish destroyer and sailed to Britain. Throughout the war he served with the Royal Navy on destroyer escort duty in the Atlantic and on the Murmansk run.

With the end of the war and no prospect of returning to his native soil, now tilled under a communist administration, he transferred his affections to merchant shipping as a marine engineer. For several years he sailed the seven seas with the mercantile marine.

Subsequently the naval veteran brought his English wife and daughter, Stephanie, to British Columbia. It proved a highly successful venture. While mother and daughter attend to the needs of the visitor in the store Mr. Novak works on the marine side.

As a skin diver he can inspect a visiting vessel without raising it from the water. When he is on dry land he provides fuel and marine accessories to visiting yachtsmen. There is only one scarcity in the Novak calendar and that is time. Since the opening of the season they have been run off their feet. Even in winter, when the travellers are few, the days will be busy for the storekeeper.

BUSY SEASON

Mr. Novak plans to transform cottages and marine facilities into a modern style. He anticipates the necessity of installing larger gas tanks and other supply services. These plans promise a busy winter.

The Gulf Islands have always been popular with visiting yachtsmen. They will lose none of their appeal now that the customs establishment invites them to call. Bedwell Harbor is on the map.

BOOSTER CLUB SEEKS FREEZER FOR ICE CREAM

Ladies of the Baseball Booster Club in Sidney are seeking the loan of a small freezer that could be used at the Memorial Park for the temporary storage of ice cream bars which are in great demand at the refreshment stall during the games.

E. John has renovated and donated a propane grill for use at the park. The grill is available for any functions in the park.

NO TEA OR CRUMPETS!

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell, Salem, Ore., were most impressed with the lovely motel in which they stayed and said it was the most beautiful accommodation they had ever stayed in. They enjoyed the view of the Juan de Fuca Strait and liked the country generally but remarked that they would enjoy it more if the price of gas was cheaper.

Mrs. Caldwell remarked that people generally are of a fairer complexion in this locality than in her own.

W. H. Killick, Rocky Mountain House, Alta., was here on a holiday, being a former resident for 25 years. He remarked that it is still a beautiful place. Mr. Killick is a druggist and was a former owner of the Douglas hotel, Victoria. He has recently sold his store in Alberta to the Hudson's Bay Company. He remarked that Rocky Mountain House is not developed for the tourist trade but is a ranch and oil

Gardner and Green Chosen As Controversy Settled

—Board Almost Unchanged

Following a 30-day postponement, the meeting called to elect two trustees to Salt Spring School District from the Ganges area was resumed last Saturday evening. Mervyn Gardner was returned to the office he had vacated to finish out the remaining 18-month period, and J. W. A. Green was elected to complete the six-month period left by the second resignation.

W. M. Mouat resumed the chair for the public meeting which was held in Mahon hall at Ganges. C. N. Peterson again acted as secretary. Minutes of the special meeting called June 25, which had been adjourned, were read, also, notices posted to call the resumed meeting.

There was considerable controversy at the original meeting over the boundaries of the two zones on the north of Salt Spring Island which were not clearly designated. After discussion at the current meeting regarding these boundaries, Gavin C. Mouat and Mrs. V. J. Harroway made a motion "that the board consider the combining of the two school attendance areas of the northern division of Salt Spring for the purposes of the election of trustees, in future".

Board chairman, George Heinke, assured the meeting that this recommendation would be implemented at the regular August meeting of the board.

Queen Float Is Wrecked By Vandals

Wanton and deliberate destruction of the jeep which was the basis of the queen's float for Sidney Day, has led to a police investigation.

The float, which was left on the park grounds until a storage area could be found, has been completely wrecked. Wooden framework of the float has been broken, and fenders, seats, wheels, tires and equipment has been smashed or removed. Parts have not been stolen, but damaged beyond repair. SANSCHA officials have reported the damage to Sidney detachment, R.C.M.P., for investigation.

Summer Traffic

Summer has brought a surge of tourists to Sidney all eager to board the Anacortes ferry. The familiar line-up of cars on Beacon Ave. has been extending beyond the Bethel Baptist church as it awaits the arrival of the ship on many occasions during the last week.

RETIRED TO SIDNEY

HIS SERVICE SPANS HALF CENTURY OF DEVELOPMENT

In a 30-year career with the Royal Canadian Air Force, Commander Sheldon W. Coleman has spanned the aeronautical development of half a century. The retired air force officer now makes his home on Beaufort Road, Sidney.

It was immediately prior to the beginning of the hard times when the young airman learned to fly with the diminutive R.C.A.F. by his introduction to the air was by way of the Avro 504. He learned to fly in a First World War machine under the direction of First World War instructors. He has come out of the service in the era of unprecedented speed and scientific developments unconsidered during his early days.

Despite his experience of aviation and the advances made, Air-Comm. Coleman looks back with affection on the old biplane. It was real flying in those old machines, he recalls. They had a performance which is ridiculous alongside their successors, but they gave the pilot a real impression of aviation.

TWICE BACK

An American by birth, the retired Sidney officer has no recollection of his birthplace as such. At the age of three he accompanied his parents when they came to live in Hamilton, Ont., and he grew up as a Canadian. Since that time he has twice been back to the United States. For a brief period after his graduation from university he worked south of the line and during his service he was attached to the United States Air Force.

When J. Reid Hanson, of Deacon Ave., who is serving as commanding officer of 876 Sidney (Kinsmen) Air Cadet Squadron, enlisted with

Lanes Marked

A line-up lane, for vehicles, has now been marked out on the Port Washington wharf, and suitable signs directing ferry traffic, erected. A number of "slow" signs have also been placed in strategic positions on Pender roads, and "stop" signs erected where access roads meet island roads. These safety warnings have been hailed by residents.

The line-up lane on the wharf was necessitated due to restricted space on the Cy Peck by the time the vessel reaches Pender, and the resultant scramble to try to get aboard. The Pender Island Chamber of Commerce requested the lane, and the signs, which have been provided by the department of highways.

Definition of a cannibal: one who really loves his fellow man.

by Frances Barton of GENERAL FOODS KITCHENS
What could taste better on hot buttered toast than peach jam? Here's my very successful recipe.

PEACH JAM
4 cups prepared fruit
(about 2 quarts ripe peaches)
1/4 cup lemon juice (2 lemons)
7 1/2 cups (3 1/4 lbs.) sugar
1 bottle Certo fruit pectin

How to prepare fruit. Peel and pit about 2 quarts fully ripe peaches. Grind or chop very fine. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Add 1/4 cup lemon juice.

How to make the jam. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to full rolling boil. Boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in Certo at once. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Stir and skim for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle into glasses. Cover at once with 1/4 inch hot paraffin. Makes about 11 medium glasses.

Peeling: What is it? Here's the answer! Pectin is the jelling substance found in all fruits in varying amounts. Certo is pectin extracted from fruits rich in this natural substance, then refined, concentrated and performance-controlled. Using Certo and following the tested Certo recipes, means your jam and jelly will always set right.

Preserving Pointer: Certain fruits, such as peaches, pears, apricots and apples darken easily while you're preparing them for preserving. To help keep their color, place the fruit in a bath of 1/2 tablespoon salt and 1/2 tablespoon of vinegar to 4 cups of water. Then rinse them in clear water before you pack them in jars. That way they'll look every bit as good as they taste!

More recipes—more hints. Watch for them! If you've had a problem with your jam or jelly making, drop me a line. I'd be glad to help. Bye for now.

STAFF OFFICER

During the war Air-Comm. Coleman was withdrawn from active flying and became a staff officer. He was sufficiently aware of conditions in general to accept the grounding philosophically. He was a veteran of more than a decade of service and his new comrades were mostly recent graduates from various schools and colleges.

Service in Ottawa, he recalls, is no sinecure and although he has served there twice he was thankful to get away from the problems which face the staff in the control room of the Royal Canadian Air Force. After the war in Europe he was attached to a United States unit in a staff capacity. His duties took him to Guam, where his American colleagues had 600 aircraft ready for service at any time.

NO TARGET

By that time Guam was an enemy target and he saw no sign of enemy raiders at any time. Neither was there a target in Japan which merited a 600-bomber force at any time. His unit rarely sent over more than 100 to 200 planes at any time during his service on Guam.

Stationed on an island 1,500 miles from Tokyo, the unit was satisfactory enough while the war was still being fought, but by the end of the period it proved an unattractive place for peacetime service. There was nowhere to go and the island was a vast military unit, offering little in the way of recreation to any of the forces.

In Ottawa, he then spent two years as a staff officer, but with little enthusiasm. When he returned to Ottawa he was happy to advertise his distaste for service there and was promptly promoted and posted away.

For the final years of his service he went to Europe with the Allied Air Forces of Central Europe. This was the swansong and a pleasant swansong it proved to be. The international group was directed by an English officer of the R.A.F., who insisted that the personnel think in terms of international service and avoid any reference or preference to their own or another country.

PRACTICE RUN

The unit, which was stationed at Fontainebleu, near Paris, included most countries taking part in the defence of Europe. His own capacity was assistant chief of staff (planning). It was the most realistic of all exercises, he recalls, because there was in the background the constant awareness that something could blow up into the real thing and every operation had to be carried out with that probability in mind.

During the latter years of his service the retired air force officer looked with affection at Patricia Bay, which he had known as a military unit. He recalled its construction at the beginning of the war when it was devised as one of the few permanent air force bases on the west coast.

Now a civilian for the first time in three decades, the retired senior officer is learning a new routine without the responsibilities of a staff appointment and he is enjoying it.

CENTRAL SAANICH

BRENTWOOD

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. T. Parkin, West Saanich Road, entertained to tea several members of the United Church W.A. A short meeting was held and an enjoyable social time was spent. The hostess was assisted in serving tea by her guest, Mrs. E. Charbonneau from San Diego, who has been spending a few weeks at her home and is leaving next week for a short stay in Vancouver before returning to San Diego.

Mrs. Fred Sluggett of West Saanich Road has been a patient at St. Joseph's hospital for the past three weeks and has now returned to the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. Knott, Sluggett Road, where she will stay for a couple of weeks to recuperate.

A guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Thomson, Columbia Ave., has been Mrs. Thomson's mother, Mrs. W. Davies, from Vancouver. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hindley, Hagan Road, have Mrs. Hindley's brother, R. L. Bingham from Guelph, Ont., visiting with them for a few weeks.

Mrs. M. Hunt, who has been a patient at St. Joseph's hospital for several weeks, has now returned to her home on Harding Lane to recuperate.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Campbell have returned home after spending several weeks' holiday touring Canada, stopping at Sudbury and Sault Ste Marie visiting with their sons and families.

The June meeting of Sluggett Memorial Mission Circle was held at the home of Mrs. B. E. Brown, West Saanich Road, with five members present. Mrs. A. Shiner took the chair in the absence of the president, Mrs. R. Anderson. It was decided to have a White Cross work meeting on August 25 at the church. For the devotional program Mrs. Shiner read an article on leper work from Hong Kong. This was of interest to the members as it is the area where the White Cross parcels are sent.

Brentwood Boys Lose Third Try

Vancouver Island champion softball winners, Brentwood Midget Boys, travelled to Vancouver last week-end to make an unsuccessful attempt on the provincial championship.

Although disappointed when they lost out in the bid for the B.C. championship they had a very happy time. Playing Cloverdale they dropped the deciding game of a best-of-three series.

Cloverdale won the first game, 8-7; Brentwood squared things with a 7-6 win but lost the third, 11-1.

The softball executive at Cloverdale gave the boys a wonderful time, on Saturday night a wiener roast and a picnic on Sunday. They stayed overnight at the Clover Inn. Cars for the trip were provided by Rom Knott, Bill Benn, Phil Benn and Walter Wybrow, Maureen, daughter of Bill Benn, and Phil Benn's daughter, accompanied the party. The journey through the Deas Tunnel was of much interest to the youngsters.

Mr. Milne, past Dominion president, from Vancouver, was welcomed by those in attendance.

Final arrangements were made for the tea which was held on July 22. Members expressed their gratitude to Mrs. A. Scott for the use of her home and garden and also for the tables and chairs loaned by the men's unit, No. 302.

Door prize was won by Mrs. C. Bousfield. The next general meeting is to be held on the third Tuesday in September.

Blow-gun, used by certain South American tribes, is about 10 feet long.

Popular Couple Entertain 75 for 57th Anniversary

Widely esteemed Saanichton couple celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary on Sunday, July 26. They were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. (Dick) Nimmo, 7582 East Saanich Road. On July 24, 1902, Mr. and Mrs. Nimmo were married in St. Stephen's Anglican church, Mount Newton Cross Road, by the Rev. Mr. Wimberley.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Nimmo have been notable figures in the district during the past decade. Mrs. Nimmo is a granddaughter of William Thomson, Scottish carpenter who was the first white man to establish a permanent home on Saanich Peninsula.

Mr. Nimmo was for many years roads foreman with Saanich municipality prior to the secession of Central Saanich. They retired a number of years ago to the stone house which Mr. Nimmo built at the junction of East Saanich Road and Prosser Road.

JAMES ISLAND

Mrs. Jim Doran, Jr., and children flew from Vancouver to spend a holiday at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Doran, while Mr. Doran attends the air force reserve training school at Cold Lake, Alta.

Mr. and Mrs. Mel Gordon and family renewed acquaintances, while guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Ruffie. Mr. Gordon is a former employee of Canadian Industries Limited and was resident on James Island with his family. He is now with the R.C.A.F. and was in the process of being transferred from Fort Churchill, Man., to Sudbury, Ont.

Mrs. Graham Parker and family are flying to Edmonton to visit relatives there and to join Mr. Parker who is attending summer school at the University of Alberta.

Dr. and Mrs. Douglas McLeod, with Lynn and Elaine, from North Vancouver were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Askey. The McLeods are enjoying a leisurely trip through the islands on their pleasure boat.

Mrs. J. Lambert of Ardrossan, Scotland was a brief visitor to James Island at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Carpenter. Mr. Lambert is a director of Imperial Chemicals Limited and their son, Douglas, resides on James Island while employed by Canadian Industries Limited. Mrs. Lambert paid a brief call on Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bond, and brought messages from Mr. Bond's uncle, James Bond, also of Ardrossan.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McCreesh are spending their holidays visiting their son, Angus McCreesh and family at Ladner; their daughter and her family, Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Waud of Bellevue, Wash., and then their other daughter and her family, Mrs. O. C. Roan, at Northgate, Seattle.

Experimental Farm Notes

WEEKLY REPORT OF NORTH SAANICH STATION

One of the problems with the handling operations of strawberries in the Saanich Peninsula is in the time lag between picking and cool storage. Often berries picked in the morning and held by the grower in the field until a shipment at five or six at night are then further delayed three or four hours until the fruit is loaded into cool storage.

In an attempt to evaluate the effect of various time lags between picking and storage 10 four-pound boxes of British Sovereign strawberries were picked before 9 a.m. on June 23, 1959. The fruit was harvested from the Experimental Farm maximum production area which had received a full spray program for mildew and fruit rot. The berries were placed in an open shaded shed, from which two were removed and placed in 55 deg. Fah. refrigerated storage immediately after harvest, one hour, four hours, six hours and eight hours after harvest.

Shiny fruit was maintained only by placing it in storage immediately after harvest. Any delay appeared to be associated with dulling of the fruit. Mould was fairly uniform but one sample, stored six hours after picking, appeared better. Further tests will be required to give positive results but storage soon after picking appears to keep the berries shiny.

HOLD MEET AT BOUGHNEATH

A most successful barn meet was held by the Vancouver Island Ayrshire Club at the Boughneath Farm of C. J. Reimer, Tapping Road, on July 25. Visitors were present from up-Island points as far as Nanaimo Bay. Also in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Paton, Ayrshire breeders from Ladner, and Stephen Arneson of Vancouver who spoke about the Milner A.I. Station.

The Boughneath herd was inspected and compared in a novel way, before lunch the entire herd of 45 purebred Ayrshires were grouped into families of original cows bought by Mr. Reimer. After lunch the herd was assembled into families of herd sires. This comparison and the speaker that followed were of much interest to the crowd present.

First prize for the 4-H judging class, conducted by Ken Jamieson, Duncan, was won by Scott Kendrick, Sooke, and Bonnie Reimer.

The committee in charge of the profitable day were: Mr. Reimer; I. Hoskins, Saanichton; W. Adams, Keating; D. G. Morton, Duncan.

List of Rules For Use of New Park at Beaver Lake

Saanich council has been asked by the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks committee to pass a by-law setting out the "do nots" for anyone using the Beaver-Elk Lake park.

A suggestion that glass bottles be banned was considered impracticable as families picnicking often bring along bottles of milk for their small children and infants, but a ruling against the leaving or discarding of bottles will be included. Some of the prohibitions restrict picking flowers or removal of or injury to any tree or plant; lighting of fires; deposit of any material on the land or in the water; leaving or discarding containers; hunting; shooting or camping; bringing horses or dogs into picnic concessions, the bathing area or elsewhere unless under control (in the case of dogs this means on leash); bringing liquor into park; launching power boats from parks areas except with permission from Saanich council; acting in a rowdy manner; bringing vehicles into parks after 11 p.m., unless given special permission by the Saanich council; defacing signs or moving barriers; parking on sides of access roads or use of vehicles on trails.

No action has yet been taken by the council.

A STROKE OF A PEN

CANADA'S postmaster-general could do a very great favor for the Saanich Peninsula. And he could do it with just the stroke of a pen. If this dignitary would proclaim that the entire Saanich Peninsula should be considered a part of the Greater Victoria postal area, he would have earned the undying praise of thousands and thousands of residents.

The situation here today is hopeless from a postal standpoint. There are few residents or business houses from Royal Oak north who do not correspond regularly with persons and firms in Victoria. Because the Royal Oak area and all the territory on the Peninsula north of that centre are in a different postal area to the British Columbia capital, we are all being penalized to the tune of thousands of dollars every month. And the situation is worse today than it was a year ago.

Some time ago postal authorities in Victoria realized that delivery of mail was being delayed and extra expense put on Peninsula residents because only a 4c stamp was put on a letter instead of the necessary 5c postage. An intelligent campaign was waged and thousands of leaflets sent gratis to Victoria business houses and residents. These leaflets showed clearly what territory required 4c postage and which needed 5c. The entire campaign although well intended and well executed was a dismal failure. Thousands of letters still arrived with insufficient postage.

Then our good friends of the B.C. Telephone Co. entered into the picture. They included all telephones over the entire Peninsula in one phone book holus-bolus. And at the same time they abbreviated street names until they were almost unrecognizable.

Here are some examples at random: Lieut.-Col. J. H. Larocque formerly resided on Rotherly Ave.; today his home is on Rotherly. Mrs. E. J. McFeely was formerly listed as living on Derrinberg Road; today she's on Derrnrg. C. R. Rich was a well-known resident of Mainwaring Road in North Saanich; now his home is listed as on Mainwrg. We're not critical of the B.C. Telephone Co. on this score. They have lots of other troubles. The book they have produced is intended solely as a telephone directory. But the trouble is that it is universally used as a street directory as well. And human beings, being human, always will follow this course.

Result is that persons and business houses addressing mail in Victoria are actually forwarding letters with only 4c postage to these unusual addresses. When the right address of the recipient is ferreted out by frustrated postal workers, a further delay is occasioned while the two-cent penalty for insufficient postage is collected.

Every month residents of the greater part of the Saanich Peninsula are being penalized thousands of dollars in this way. The situation is wrong. The Review learns that all insufficient postage problems of this nature can be cured if the postmaster-general will designate the Peninsula a part of the Greater Victoria postal area. It's as simple as that. It was done in the district over a wide area around Vancouver. Surely we are entitled to the same privilege here.

OUTSTANDING CRAFTSMEN

A NUMBER of quiet, unassuming residents of the district have gained a distinction for the North Saanich community which is far beyond any accruing to many a large, industrial centre.

When Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip return to their home in London they will retrieve the gifts presented to them by the people of British Columbia as a memento of their visit to this province.

In the case of each gift there will be a direct link with North Saanich. The desk set and smoking set were engraved by a North Saanich silversmith. The sets were placed in a case constructed by a North Saanich man and lined by his neighbor. When Prince Philip received two falcons the gloves provided for use with the birds were made by a North Saanich housewife.

It is gratifying that in a community world-famed for its gentle climate and pleasing verdure there should be such a group of outstanding craftsmen.

GRATEFUL

Editor, Review,
Sir:

We wish to gratefully thank all those who kindly gave of their time and energy on July 19 when our barn caught fire.

Had the response not been prompt and co-operative to the extreme, the damage could have been devastating.

Again we thank you.

ELECTRICITY BILLS

Editor, Review,
Sir:

Next month (August), Salt Spring Island light bills will go up as much as 30 per cent. This in spite of orders from the Seaboard Royal Commission not to raise rates, as the B.C. Power Commission is making power returns, and have plenty of money for their needs. This is further borne out from their own statement, that they made so much money last year, they, the B.C. Power Commission were able to pay an extra 10 per cent to the different municipalities, or a total of $294,447.

In a letter to me, the manager of the power commission states, that so-called class 3 users have been over-charged all these years, and therefore instead of cutting class 3 rates, they are raising class 2 to the same or even higher level, and now everybody is going to be over-charged.

Salt Spring Island, considering its location will now have the highest power rates on the North American Continent, even though high tension lines make a blot on our beautiful island, and the power commission, only two miles away sells power for almost half of what we shall now have to pay, and the pulp mills get it nearly free.

We, the people of Salt Spring Island have elected representatives both in Victoria and Ottawa. See to it, that they earn their pay.

H. A. EMERSLUND,
R.R. 1, Ganges,
July 24, 1959.

Father and Son in Uniform

Two Reid Hannans stand by the aircraft that one of them has been flying. F/L J. Reid Hannan is seen with his son, Cadet LAC Hannan at Victoria Flying Club. F/L Hannan is the commanding officer of 676 Sidney (Kinsmen) Air Cadet Squadron. LAC Hannan is the only cadet in the squadron to wear his wings.

TWO OF A KIND

Student, Pilot, Mechanic Reid Hannan Looks Upward

Young Reid Hannan is a student at North Saanich high school. Even before he became a member of the air cadet squadron at Sidney, he was learning to fly.

For several years the student has pursued various occupations during the summer months in order to finance his flying course. Now a qualified pilot, he wears his wings proudly when in the uniform of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets. Cadets wear their wings on the right breast. In the air force the wings are worn on the left.

Cadet Hannan also wears the badge of St. John Ambulance in token of a further course he has attended in his own time.

A good student, a conscientious and efficient air cadet and a prominent member of the Saanich Peninsula Auto Restylists, young Reid Hannan was chosen by the officers and sponsoring committee of the local air cadet squadron to meet Queen Elizabeth during her brief visit here. The selection was a surprise to both father and son, for the choice was made in the absence of the commanding officer.

While Reid Hannan, Jr., looks to a career with the air force, Reid Hannan, Sr., looks back on a similar experience. F/L Hannan was a permanent force officer both before and since the Second World War. At this point the two diverge widely in their choices. F/L Hannan served with the marine branch and most of his service off the ground was on the bridge of an air force launch. His son looks upwards and plans to spend his days flying.

Despite the fact that the father and son team meets on the parade ground of the squadron here, there was no coercion brought to bear on LAC Hannan. He is the more senior member of the squadron and was already enlisted before his father assumed command.

In addition to his familiarity with the controls of a plane, young Reid Hannan has devoted considerable time and study to the mechanical aspects of flying. His mechanical interests brought him to the automobile club here. In association with the club he has completely rebuilt the engine in his car and is already a competent mechanic.

The connection with the air does not end with the son. F/L Hannan is now a passenger agent with Trans Canada Air Lines and assists the public at large to get into the air, having already helped his son in the same direction.

Heading same way.

Thursday's game was won by A.N.A.F. over Legion, 10-4. Standing at present is as follows:

P W T L Pts

Rotary 15 10 1 4 21

A.N.A.F. 16 9 0 7 18

Legion 14 7 1 6 15

Merchants 15 3 2 10 8

One game, Rotary vs. Legion, was rained out and will be played at the end of the regular schedule.

Games for next week are Thursday, July 30, Merchants vs. Legion, with Sunday's double-header of A.N.A.F. vs. Merchants and Legion vs. Rotary. Tuesday, Aug. 4, is A.N.A.F. vs. Legion.

Work Starts

A large batch of gravel, cement, and cement equipment arrived this week at Ganges and is being trucked to the site of the new light aggregate plant at Welby Bay. It is expected that work will begin this week on foundations for the buildings.

Editors Are Chieftains

Made Honorary Chieftains of the Saanich tribe at Indian Head, Sask., July 16, were Leslie E. Barber, left, Chilliwack, B.C. Progress publisher and Hugh E. McCormick of the Montreal Monitor at an impressive powwow during the fortieth annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association. Mr. Barber succeeds Mr. McCormick as president of the 725-member association. An honor bestowed infrequently on white men by this particular branch of the Cree Nation, this was viewed by the 400 delegates to the convention as a fine tribute to the understanding attitude of Canada's country editors toward Canadian Indians. Mr. Barber assumes the name of a 90-year-old Indian, Waglah Doupe, and becomes Chief Four Thunder. Mr. McCormick, as Chief Eagle Horn, is now known to the tribe as Chief Kehnawitwikt.

Boundary Pass

(South Pender Island speaks to Waldron Island)

I wonder—Do you ever wonder Who and what we are?
Are we just a roof and a wreath of smoke?
A lighted window when dark descends?
Or are we "They", "the other folk"?
"Flying Dutchmen" and phantom friends?

What of the signals we learn to ken—

Trivial and everyday?

A laundry line can tell a tale. . . .

Perhaps a stork flew by?

I saw a fire on your beach tonight, And a plane came in,—I wonder why?

I wonder—Do you ever wonder What we do and why?

Have you ever thought as your coffee brews

What fun it would be if we Could swap our smokes, our news and jokes—

I wonder—Do you ever wonder I know your horizon, hill on hill,

Blue, purple, dark and light; Boundary Pass, unruffled. . . calm; Pregnant with wrath on a winter's night.

When we look into the rising sun, When you look into the sunset glow, It would be nice to know who is who,

Not to guess but to truly know.

On the other hand these proverbs; The one about the fly;

And "Distance lends enchantment", "Better let sleeping dogs lie".

So I wonder—Do you ever wonder If it might not be rather a shame To solve these unsolved riddles, And spoil our guessing game?

"Hunting the Bismarck", by C. S. Forester. Michael Joseph. 110 pp.

It was the lowest ebb of the war for the Commonwealth forces who fought alone with no support beyond the promise of supplies. Her ally occupied by enemy forces, German arms advancing wherever they turned and a series of setbacks in North Africa had left its mark.

The era spent near-disaster to the war effort. It spent more to the navies of the world. The writer in a few brief pages, depicts the events which led to the loss of the Hood and the Bismarck in rapid succession. Tens of thousands of men were lost in the brief encounter and the navies of two opposing countries were shattered at the news that their own vessels had been lost. It was the beginning of the end of the battleship.

For decades and throughout the course of the First World War the battleship had been the ultimate in naval strength. It was brute force mechanized. Suddenly, the battleship proved to be incapable of defending itself. It was as vulnerable as its smaller relatives despite its tremendous striking power.

The authority among novelists on naval affairs, C. S. Forester, has drawn a clever and a convincing picture of the end of the Bismarck. He has introduced minor characters into the ships and he has spelled out words for real characters to say. It is an interesting and a disturbing story. It was the dark before the dawn for the west and the story brings out the true darkness.

"... behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation."—II Cor. 6:2.

It has been said that it is a lady's privilege to change her mind, but I find she is not alone in this regard for men and women, boys and girls all change their minds and that quite often.

And not only minds but principles are readily and to suit the pleasure of the individual.

Generally speaking man wants things now. When a new car is bought, he wants it now! When the lady of the house buys a new freezer, she wants it now! When the family buys a television set, they want it now! The retailer has seen the truth of this and as a selling feature we read in ads: "Immediate delivery!"

Now comes the change. When these same people are approached regarding salvation, that is, their relationship to Christ by new birth, their answer is "not now—when I'm older and have lived my life—then I'll consider it." Salvation is not only an escape from eternal torment—it is also a help in this life that we might enjoy this earthly life as God intended it to be enjoyed. Why not accept Christ now? He is available for "immediate possession."

SAANICH COUPLE TOURS JAPAN

Impressed With Health And Earnestness

By FRANK KIRBY

The people of Japan are a progressive race, sports minded, health-conscious and very, very artistic.

This is the conclusion reached by Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Vantreight, Jr., 4437 Tyndal, who have recently returned following a combined business and pleasure trip to Japan.

Mrs. Jean Vantreight, who returned home complete with notes and photographs, stated that Japan was different to what she had expected. The City of Tokyo was quite similar to other western cities in architecture, dress and in some respects, traffic. A ride in a taxi in Japan is one of the thrills of a lifetime, said Mrs. Vantreight, "you imagine any moment you are going to run down a pedestrian or be run over by a truck".

Mrs. Vantreight said they were naturally disappointed that the cherry blossoms were over when they got there as that is one of the most beautiful sights in Japan. To make up for this the couple saw Mount Fuji, which according to Japanese legend is supposed to bring good luck to those who gaze at it when it is not covered with cloud.

TOKYO

Mrs. Vantreight stated the population of Tokyo as nine million. It is one of the fastest growing cities in the world. As a comparison, she remarked the population of London is moving to the suburbs while the population of Japan is moving into Tokyo by leaps and bounds.

Walking down the Ginza, the main street of Tokyo, you very rarely see the population in native dress. If you see such an occasion it is usually a farmer from the country giving the city a visit. The people of Japan rarely wear hats except for the people working in the fields.

Motorcycles and small cars are the main modes of transportation in Tokyo. If a large American car traverses the city it is usually a cause for road jams and both driver and police are pleased when the leviathan is gone.

The most common vehicle on the streets of Japan is the Toyopet. This is a car about the size of the English Humber. Mrs. Vantreight recalled how the doorman at the Imperial Hotel, where they were staying, called a taxi for them, which turned out to be a machine about the size of a Volkswagen. Mr. Vantreight, being over six feet tall, had his share of trouble getting to a comfortable position. Once in the car the driver drove at such speeds and shot into any hole in the traffic to the extent that the couple were glad they were insured. The Japanese use a number of three-wheel automobiles, from the small car to the larger delivery trucks. The machines have one wheel in the front and two in the back. The taxi-drivers will take you to your destination for 80 yen, which is equal to about 25 cents in our money.

The Tokyo TV tower, which they thought to be the second largest in the world, was an attraction they well remember. Elevators rise within the structure and while going up a person can view the city, as the shaft is not enclosed. The lobby of the shaft includes display cases, filled with items of interest and pictures of the royal family.

SPORTS

Japan is very sports minded and baseball is to be observed everywhere. Businessmen in their lunch hour are to be seen throwing a ball to one another. There are 12 professional teams in Japan with a number of smaller leagues. Mr. and Mrs. Vantreight attended one of the professional games and noted the game was basically the same as played on this continent. A few changes were that the umpire wore white gloves, a girl announced the game, and while the batter was up to bat a light showed beside his name on the billboard.

One feature was that when you purchase a cushion to sit on the price of the cushion is 30 yen, but there is a 100 yen deposit, the idea being that the fans will not throw the cushions on the field. The fans who get worked up over their ball game come prepared, though. They purchase streamers and these are thrown on the field if a run is batted in or any other cause for enthusiasm occurs.

Sumo is the national sport of Japan, and is a type of wrestling.

HEALTH

The people are the most health-conscious race the visitors have encountered. Mrs. Vantreight mentioned they observed the odd person walking down the street with gauze across the mouth. They asked their business friend about this and were told that the person probably had a cold and was not spreading germs. The cities of Japan were very clean, with the odd exception. Shopping in one of the large department stores the couple observed that at the foot of each of the many escalators, there were two girls employed, whose jobs was to have a damp cloth and wipe down the hand-rail. Mr. Vantreight happened to be allergic to a scent in one building they entered and sneezed. All heads turned the other direction so quickly you would have thought a gun had been fired.

The Japanese home has the floor covered with Tatami, or a type of carpet. This mat is of a very smooth texture and has as a base a bed of straw about three inches thick. The shoes, or Gori, are taken off at the door of the house and are not worn inside at all. The Tatami is the dinner table sitting place and in the evening the bed rolls are laid out for the residents to sleep on.

Art is everywhere in Japan, from the beautiful temples to the setting of the dinner table. Every carving and painting has a special meaning to the Japanese. The Saanich couple visited several temples all of which appeared beautiful to them, but to the Japanese they are a place of study and worship.

One temple they visited had the ceiling in squares and on each square was a painted bird, each with its own meaning and thought. This art is lost to the westerner who does not understand the meaning but just sees the outward appearance of the article.

Dwarf trees and shrubs are carefully pruned to give their own meaning. Most trees are of the flowering type and azaleas grow wild. The average house does not have the garden that the American home does.

Cut flowers were not seen, to speak of, on the journey, but certain individuals make an art of floral arrangements.

Religion is mostly Buddhist, Shinto and Christian with some having a bit of all.

THE FAMILY

One surprising thing to the average westerner is the fact that the Japanese family consists of three or four children and some just two. The respect of the senior members of the family is very great and a far cry to the western home of today, according to Mrs. Vantreight.

THE FARM

Farm life is hard in Japan with many families having to make their living from two rice crops a year on a small plot of land. No inch of space is wasted. The farm adjoining the railway is used right to the very edge of the railway. If you could look out of the window of the fast moving trains you would not be able to see the edge of the field as the crop is growing right under the train itself. Mandarin oranges and tea are widely grown. The fields of tea are grown like neatly trimmed hedges and give a pleasing effect to the eye as you travel. Women do most of the work in the fields and very little machinery is used. The odd rototiller was observed, making very heavy going. In the field, large sunshade hats are used.

Travelling in the country one notable difference seen is the variety of types of billboard. In Japan the signs are small and run in a series, three or four in a row. There is also a tall pillbox type complete with roof, having advertising on all sides.

EDUCATION

Great strides are being made in education in Japan. Children from the age of nine up are taken twice a year on trips to the various shrines, parks, industries and places of interest. The children, both girls and boys, are dressed in black uniforms all alike. When the children are on their tours they are accompanied by the bus driver—all bus drivers wear white gloves—and a young lady. Among the duties of the young lady is to assist the driver to back the bus into the parking space. This is done by the young lady blowing a whistle. When all is well she blows short notes on the whistle but if the parking isn't going well she will blow a long blast on the whistle, the driver stops, and she tells him the situation. This is carried out until the bus is properly parked, saving the driver craning his neck out the window and also avoids the possibility of running over a child.

The children receive good teaching while at school and upon finishing the equivalent to our high school can write exams to enter many of the fine universities. The exams are very stiff and only a very small percentage of those writing are admitted. It is not uncommon for students who have failed to pass university entrance to commit suicide.

BUSINESS

Mr. and Mrs. Vantreight found language a barrier. The Japanese people do not want to attempt to speak English unless they are sure that what they say is accurate. They are pleased if you attempt their language. One great difference in the language they found, that in speaking Japanese no nicknames are used. Mr. Vantreight's business friend found it very amusing when such diminutives were used.

The Japanese are very business like, extremely courteous and will drive a hard bargain. Mr. Vantreight, a bulb grower, thought the quality of the Japanese tulips were good. The conditions under which the bulbs are grown are quite similar to Holland, both having a very sandy soil.

The Japanese as a rule do not shake hands as is the western custom but bow to their guests and friends. If they note that it is your

HE CANNOT EAT WITHOUT HIS PARTIAL PLATE

Someone in Sidney is finding a real problem at the dinner table. The eager gourmet is unable to tackle the menu with the gusto it merits for the lack of dentures.

Last week a partial plate was mailed at the Sidney Post Office without indication of the intended destination.

The plate fits none of the postal staff and awaits collection at the post office by the owner.

way to greet by a handshake they will do so to oblige.

Mr. and Mrs. Vantreight had the opportunity to visit the International Trade Fair in Tokyo while they were there and were very impressed with the wonderful advances that had been made. They took in the Canadian exhibit which depicted a woman being treated for cancer by a cobalt machine. The Canadian exhibit, though small, was very good they considered.

The advancement of machines in Japan was in evidence everywhere with new, modern, electric trains, cable cars, telephones; everything was modern. The cable car ride near Kobe was a beautiful ride in which they could see across the Inland Sea. The cars were completely suspended and the system was one of the many now in operation in Japan. These are not just for the western tourist, but the great tourist trade in the populace of Japan.

On the many train trips the travellers took they remarked on the special express, or Kodama, train from Tokyo to Osaka. Everything was modern, with all the conveniences one would wish. The train was spotless and the news attendant vacuumed their compartment twice while they were on the eight- or nine-hour trip. On this trip there were no stops but on the trains that do stop the trains leave exactly on time and the doors are all controlled automatically. Mrs. Vantreight remarked that the trains were run so exact to schedule that you could set your watch, should it stop, by the time it left the next station. On excursions to the outlying points the occasional native can be seen in the traditional dress complete with sandals, either the geta, with the wedges under ranging one to five inches in height, or the zori.

YOKOHAMA

The shipping centre for the main island of Japan, Honshu, is Yokohama. The harbor is cluttered with every type of ship imaginable. As docking space is at a premium, there are many family boats, somewhat similar to the Chinese junk, which are large barges about 40 feet in length. The barges are used to transport goods from the larger boats to piers. The family assist in all chores aboard these boats and they spend their life aboard. Children can be seen swinging on the upper deck. When the child reaches school age he is sent to boarding school and returns in the summer to assist his parents.

COST OF LIVING

The cost of living in Japan is cheaper than on this continent. As an example the Vantreights related how they stayed at the Hotel Imperial, which is the best in Tokyo, and they had a double room in the new section of the western-style hotel.

This room was very modern with a phone system as up-to-date as that used in the new Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal. The charge for the rooms was $12 per day plus a 10 per cent service charge. This charge is to cover all tipping. If you were to offer a Japanese servant a tip he would be offended, but if you were to leave it under a plate that is quite acceptable.

FOOD

At the Imperial Hotel there is a choice of either western or Japanese food. Mr. Vantreight, who grows strawberries himself, had a dish while in Japan and found them to be of very good quality. Other western food was excellent, but as elsewhere, places can be found where food isn't what you would like.

Some of the dishes they tried on the Japanese menu were: Sukiyaki, this is principally a beef dish, which is cooked before them and is undercooked and sliced into thin strips and served with rice and green vegetables.

All the food is first dipped into a batter of raw egg before eating. No seasoning is used except for soy sauce, which is optional. Tempura: is mainly a fish dish, consisting of baby shrimp fried in a batter with the usual rice. Mrs. Vantreight attempted one other dish, which was raw fish and, which, needless to say, she never completed. Chopsicks are the eating utensils and the couple were able to master the art.

The meals are all very artistically arranged and are entertained with geisha girls, which they were informed, do not earn their living immorally, as is so wrongly implied in the western world. The girls are very talented who learn

Border Picnic

Members of Women's Institutes of South Vancouver Island visited Port Angeles on Wednesday, July 29 to attend the border picnic as guests of the Home Makers' Club of Clallam County, Washington.

Representatives from institutes as far north as Nanaimo attended with a total of 240 members travelling from Victoria.

their trade from a young age. The girls observed by Mrs. Vantreight were very beautiful and she was quite impressed with them. A miniature model geisha girl was given to the couple on their departure and now stands as a proud possession upon their piano.

Mrs. Vantreight remarked how every shop, such as the dressmakers, photography and others supplied green tea before business was done.

The visit to Japan lasted two weeks and on their arrival by plane they found themselves very tired. When they left Canada the sun was shining and as they continued their 23-hour flight westward the sun travelled with them until they found they had lost a day—and a sleep.

From Japan they travelled to Hong Kong, Manila and Honolulu before landing in America. Hong Kong was very crowded and health conditions none too good.

MANILLA

Manilla they found populated by the well-to-do and the very poor. American aid was being given there, but in their opinion was not reaching the vast majority of people. They remarked on the waste of education in that country. A university student who was working as the supervisor of the swimming pool had put in 10 long years before he was given this position, which amounted to cleaning the pool. There are some 87 different dialects in the Philippines but the official language is English.

Summing up their trip Mrs. Vantreight said they saw many beautiful buildings and flowers but none could beat the roses grown on the Saanich Peninsula.

ROYAL TRIBUTE IS PAID BY COMPANY AT WINNIPEG

One of the most colorful and unusual ceremonies of Queen Elizabeth's current Canadian tour took place at noon, July 24, in Assiniboine Park, Winnipeg, when Her Majesty accepted the historic tribute of the Hudson's Bay Company before a crowd of thousands of Manitobans and visitors from near-by points in the United States.

W. J. Keswick, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, who came from London, England, to take part in the event, presented the rent offerings: two rare black beaver skins selected from over 98,650, and two mounted elk heads, each with a spread of some 40 inches, from Elk Island, Alta.

This traditional tribute is in accordance with the Company's Royal Charter of May 2, 1670, which stipulated that rent must be paid to King Charles or his heirs or successors whenever they should enter into the territories formerly known as

MARK 50 YEARS OF MARRIAGE

A golden wedding anniversary will be celebrated on Pender Island on August 7, when Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lowden will hold open house, commemorating 50 years of marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Lowden will be at home to their many friends and neighbors from 2.30 to 4.30 in the afternoon, and from 7.30 to 10 in the evening.

Rupert's Land. In the 289-year history of the company the rent has been paid to a reigning monarch on one other occasion. That was in 1939 when Her Majesty's father, King George VI, received a similar tribute.

The ceremony took place on a wide white flower-encircled dais, built about three feet above ground level on a natural knoll in the park. Colored pennants and three flags—the Royal Standard, the Canadian Ensign and the flag of the Hudson's Bay Company—flew from white flagpoles at the shrub-surrounded back of the platform.

On the dais with Her Majesty and Mr. Keswick were: Prince Philip and Mrs. Keswick; P. A. Chester, managing director of the Hudson's Bay Company, and a lady-in-waiting, Mrs. Chester, an equestrian, a secretary, the Hon. Gordon Churchill, minister of trade and commerce, and Mrs. Churchill, the Hon. Dufferin Roblin, Premier of Manitoba and Mrs. Roblin, Mayor Stephen Juba of Winnipeg, and Mrs. Juba, and other members of the royal household.

Falconry

Ancient Sport

By DORIS LEEDHAM HOBBS

The gift of a pair of falcons to Prince Philip has brought the ancient sport of falconry much to the fore.

It is interesting to note that as far back as the fifth century, A.D., falconry was practised more among the ancient Britons than among any other nation. The birds were trained to catch their prey, which their masters retrieved, and only then, did they receive reward for their prowess.

The name "Falcon" is confined to the female, who when trained and fully feathered is known as Falcon-Gentle or Gentle. They are sometimes trained with a hood which covers the eyes, a hooded falcon is well known on the gauntlet wrist of men in old portraits.

The Welsh have a saying "that you may know a gentleman by his horse, his greyhound and his hawk". In fact, men of rank in the middle ages seldom went without a hawk on their wrist.

The male bird is usually smaller than the female and is called Tassel or Tirocolet.

Both birds fly in a circle, but the female is superior in courage, docility, gentleness and nobleness of nature.

Every great house had its falconers, hence the name as often met with today. The princely house of Howel Dhu, Prince of Wales, in 942 A.D., accounted his chief falconer fourth in order of rank at his court among 24 chief officers. At the court, the Chief Falconer received as his right and privilege, three draughts of melleghin, a drink made of fermented bog honey—three only, so that he would not be tempted to neglect his birds! To this day the office of Grand Falconer is hereditary in the St. Albans family.

MORE ABOUT FALCONRY

Women of rank, as well as men were adept at falconry—and, should you go to Dorset and enter the little church of Milton Abbas you will see the ancient sculpture of the wife of Athelstan, one of our Saxon kings, with a falcon on her royal wrist or fist.

The very word "lure" so often used, is part of the art of falconry—a lure being a bird-like structure stuck with feathers and bells which is used to bring the falcon back to the falconer.

It was written by Aristotle, that,
when engaged in the sport of fowling,
the birds came to their masters when called by name! In many old portraits, we see the gloved or gauntleted hand on which perches the hawk or falcon; and the gift of a pair of beautifully embroidered or embossed leather gauntlets, the work of Mrs. D. Godwin of Beaufort Road, Sidney, added to the interest of this special gift—a royal gift to Prince Philip.

Among kingly adepts at this art were King Harold, Godwinson, King of England till the Conqueror defeated him at Hastings; Catherine the Great of Russia; Henry VI who was attended at his wedding by a nobleman and his falcon.

In present times, goshawks, falcons, merlins and other members of the family of Falco are trained and used.

The Boats That Jack Built

By M. R. LITTLER

Saturna Island is not what one would term an industrial island but those living there can be proud of Mr. and Mrs. D. Jack's achievements.

Some years ago Dave built his first fishing boat in Boot Cove, using only hand tools as he had no power machinery. It must have been quite an undertaking to build a 39-foot boat by one's self for he made a good job as it was seaworthy and served him well. She was launched in 1950 and christened Saturna Maid. He sold the boat this spring and hopes to have his new boat ready to go this year.

Mr. Jack laid the keel for his new boat in 1954 and gradually built up the sawn frames or ribs which were left to season. This year with the help of his wife and hard-working helpmate started the planking. Joe Laberto drove the first and last spikes into the planks. They have worked hard and put in long hours and have done a wonderful job.

NO PLANS

Some asked, "Where are your plans?" Dave had no plans as he knew just what he wanted and made his own diagrams and sketches, altering them when necessary, as the boat began to take shape. This time he had power tools which have been quite an improvement over the hand saw used while building the Saturna Maid.

They spent the Saturna Maid night wondering how things would turn out. Sometimes Dave would get up and sketch his ideas and go back to bed. Their boat is really worth the time and effort they have put into it.

Following the christening and launching on July 20, she was taken to the government wharf where the engine will be installed, then back to Boot Cove for completion. The boat was christened Aelous.

Oiling Program

There is considerably less dust around Ganges after the extensive oiling program carried out by the oil department this month.

The whole Cenotaph area in the middle of town has been topped as well as roadsides in the whole store area. The Shell Service Station at Ganges had black-topping placed all around the building which has been enlarged this year to include a big showroom for many appliances.

GANGES

Mrs. E. J. Ashlee, Ganges 153

Mr. and Mrs. E. (Ted) Nelson visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson, following two weeks' vacation in the interior. They returned home to Victoria with their baby daughter, Rani, who had stayed with her grandparents during her parents' holiday.

Margaret, Donna, and Johnny Fschliemann of Seattle have returned home after spending three weeks' visit with their grandfather, Don Morrison and Mrs. Morrison. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Fschliemann, and new baby, spent the week-end here prior to returning home. Tom Sorenson of Winnipeg has arrived to spend three weeks as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison.

Leah Webster, advertising man from Vancouver, is starting to build on property he owns on Lang Road, St. Mary Lake.

Mrs. M. Swaykoski has returned to her home in Burnaby after a week's visit with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. M. Sober. She was accompanied by her daughter Mrs. P. O'Neil, also of Burnaby. Also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sober were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clarke of Roberts Creek and Mr. and Mrs. R. Nimmo of Crofton.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Peterson, Beddis Road, last Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. W. Beckingham, Mr. and Mrs. N. Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Jenks, and their families, all of Port Alberni.

Holidaying in local waters on their cruisers the past week were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Sutherland and family; and Mr. and Mrs. Alec Austin both from West Vancouver. The former have just completed building their craft, a sea-sled, together with Dr. David Boyes, formerly of Ganges. This type of boat is not seen often here, but seems sea-worthy and very roomy.

Capt. A. L. Gale, P.C.C.I., spent the week-end at Ganges with his wife and family, Derek and Deirdre, who are guests of Mrs. Gale's parents, Lt.-Col. and Mrs. D. G. Crofton for several weeks. Later in the summer Capt. and Mrs. Gale will be leaving for Toronto where they will make their home.

BIG LIST OF PATIENTS AT LADY MINTO

The Lady Minto Gulf Islands hospital report for the period from July 4 to 24 shows 29 patients admitted, of whom, seven were from Galiano; four from Pender; one from Snodgrass, Wash.; six from Fulford; two from Mayne; one from Kemano; one from Vancouver and three from Saturna.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. Besler, of Galiano, on July 21.

During the past two weeks, the following doctors have visited the hospital at Ganges: Dr. R. Duncan, Dr. F. Stanley, Dr. E. C. Hoodless, Dr. R. J. Paine, and Dr. R. Beck.

The arthritis clinic, which is being held every Thursday, under the direction of Miss E. Dixon, is progressing very well.

Donations were received from: Mrs. O. Lacy, Mrs. A. Bittancourt, Mrs. F. O. Mills, Mrs. H. Loosmore, Mrs. Rall and T. Mouat.

Historians Meet At Pender Home

The regular meeting of the Gulf Islands branch of the B.C. Historical Society was held the afternoon of Sunday, July 19, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bridge. There were 20 members present. The president, Mrs. John Freeman, occupied the chair.

Due to the regretted absence of the speaker, J. S. Rivers, of Sidney, the afternoon was largely devoted to the business session. Mrs. Freeman reported on the recent committee meeting of the provincial branch in Victoria.

Tea was served on the patio, by the Pender members. The next meeting, in September, will be held at the Freeman home, South Pender.

Bobby and Jimmy Caplin, Vancouver, arrived on Sunday to vacation with Mrs. Caplin's aunt, Mrs. Mary Zetterberg of Cusheon Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Holmes from St. Thomas, Ont., are guests of Mr. Holmes' brother and sister-in-law, Archdeacon and Mrs. G. H. Holmes, for two weeks.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Crowder and family, of Calgary, are holidaying at St. Mary Lake. Rev. Crowder is minister at St. Peter's Church and 20 years ago was a friend of Archdeacon and Mrs. Holmes.

Fred Sprachlin is spending three weeks' vacation in Vancouver and Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lamb returned to their home at St. Mary Lake last Monday after three weeks' vacation to Radium, Banff, Calgary Stampede, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge and Couer D'Alene. They spent 10 days at the Calgary Stampede and had a marvelous time. They also attended the hydroplane boat races at Couer D'Alene. They report the weather was terribly hot, and races were attended by about 75,000 people. There were several bad accidents. They stayed on the lakeshore so enjoyed watching the trials prior to the races from their motel. At Medicine Hat they visited Mrs. Lamb's father, R. N. O'Gorman.

Ronnie Pappenberger, aged 21, of Salt Spring Island placed second to famous Danny Sailor in the All-Sooke Day tree climbing event. Last year Ronnie was junior champion.

The United Church Women's Association has finalized plans for the gladiolus show to be held Saturday, August 15, in the United Church hall at Ganges. Frank Lyons of Shawinigan Lake and Judge and Mrs. Dalziel of the Orchard Gardens at Maple Bay is bringing a collection of lilies and will give a talk on their culture.

Mrs. T. Rixon and children, Patrick and Janet, have returned to their home in Port Angeles after a week's visit with Mrs. Rixon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George St. Denis, St. Mary Lake.

TOURISTS

All the buildings are kept clean except in the slum area.

"You have beautiful clear days with no smog, which we have most of the year round. We have been very well treated and hope to return in a few years," he concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Spring, from Minneapolis, Minn., on their third trip to this country, said they love the climate, beautiful mountains, flowers and sea, which they do not have at home. They expressed the desire that more information be available to plan a trip while back in Minnesota. There is a dearth of information about Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, Mrs. Spring said they arrived on a late ferry and they found it hard to get a good motel and what they did use, was quite old and as expensive as the new.

K. Papk, Lovelock Nevada, stated the country was "real pretty" and they were very favorably impressed. He found the country far too wet, compared with the arid rainfall in his part of Nevada of only five inches. Mr. Papk could tell no difference between western Canadians and Americans in their mode of speech.

Two Australians, now living in Ontario, Dick Croucher and David Morlock, said the people in western Canada are more friendly than those in the east and could note the Miss Joan Lorenz of Narameta, with Judy and Janet, of Montreal, Miss Lynn Barner is home from Vancouver for the affair.

Guests at Farm House Inn this week-end are: Mr. and Mrs. S. Huckle, Dorset, England; Mr. and Mrs. D. Ogilvie and family, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. R. Perrins, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jones, Vancouver; M. Alexander, Victoria; Miss A. Crombie, Vancouver; H. Harvey, Vancouver; Dr. and Mrs. J. Harvey, Victoria; B. Savage, Vancouver; A. Barnett, Vancouver; Mrs. L. M. Sankey, Vancouver; Miss M. Tirlman, Vancouver; and J. Cooper, Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Russell enjoyed a visit from their daughter, Mrs. D. Denroche and family, of Vancouver, recently.

Last week-end, Mr. and Mrs. O. Heys had as their guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Murphy of Sidney.

Guests at Salishan last week were Mr. and Mrs. W. Baillie and daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard.

difference in dialect between western and eastern Canadians and Americans. People are friendly in the shops even when they didn't buy and they noted that the lower part of Government St. reminded them of parts of London.

Mr. Crocher said he had made a trip to Butchart Gardens and he was very taken with the different types of flowers there were, which he had not seen in Australia. He also remarked he felt more at home in the west, where he felt over in the east, where he felt over in the west.

Mrs. Berghelm, San Francisco, was spending her vacation here with friends and was delighted with the place. The weather was much better than at home, being much warmer and more still. She remarked on the slower pace of life and the ease with which one could park.

They were all impressed with the flowers, hanging baskets and Butchart Gardens. Mrs. Berghelm noted that there was not as much drinking in this area and had drunk more tea since being here. Asked how she liked tea, she remarked, "I have even bought a tea pot."

Food and general merchandise about the same in price as in her home town. She commented that she had been under the impression that San Francisco prices were high.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Mehlfaff, Los Angeles, were in Victoria and the islands on their way to North Dakota where he has a farm.

They liked the country and have taken three reels of colored slides of Butchart Gardens alone. Mrs. Mehlfaff admired the way people keep their gardens so well. The only fault they could find was that the road signs were confusing to them. The round number sign, 1-17, led them to think it was a fraction of a highway.

ALL SET FOR MAYNE FAIR

AS PRIZE LIST COVERS WIDE RANGE

By ISLANDER

Since 1925, with the exception of the war years, in August the thoughts of Mayne Island people, and many of their neighbors, have turned to the Mayne Island Fall Fair, this year being held on August 15.

The fair classes are very much the same as they have been for many years. The hopes of the fair committee are that the entries will be on the same scale, or even a larger one, than they have been. It has been quite a good year all round, so we look forward to very good displays of garden and floral produce. The judge this year will be Alan Littler, an old friend of our fair, and perhaps the best horticultural judge in the province.

Friends from last year, Mrs. Dorothy Wrotnowski and Mrs. Dunne, of The Colonist staff, will judge the home economics sections, and D. J. L. Anderson, of the Deep Cove Art Centre, will judge the art sections.

Perhaps you wonder how to enter? A post card to The Secretary, Mayne Island Horticultural Society, Mayne Island, will bring by return mail, entry blanks and fair brochure. Even the entry blank is not necessary. Just fill in your entries on any piece of notepaper, and mail, with 10 cents for each entry, to the secretary, and everything will be in order.

SAME SCALE

Prizes this year are on much the same scale as in the past few years. In addition, there will be the following door prizes: (1) a Cowichan sweater, made to the requirements of the winner by a local Indian lady, and made from wool from Mayne Island sheep; (2) a 10-pound ham, presented by F. J. McGrath, a well known livestock dealer from Victoria, and (3) groceries to the value of $5, presented by Ed. Bambrick, Galiano Island merchant. In addition, there will be a $5 cash prize to the holder of the fair program whose number will be drawn on the afternoon of the fair. Have your program with you, as its production will be necessary to win the prize.

To all island residents, make a note of the fair date, Saturday, August 15 at 2 p.m., and make a resolution to attend. Also note that fair entries must be in the hands of the secretary on Wednesday evening, August 12, or be in the mail at that time.

Mayne Island looks forward to having each reader of this little article as its guest on fair day. We hope to entertain you, amuse you, and return you to your own home that evening, happier for the fact that you visited our fair.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

When British Columbia Was Born

CHAPTER LVI

RAILWAY

In 1902, Charles M. Hays, who died when the Titanic sank, was manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific. He promoted a rail line from North Bay to Port Simpson. His enthusiasm resulted in a construction start westward from Winnipeg in 1906. Decision was reached to start from the west at Kaizen Island rather than at Port Simpson. In June that year, the first piles were driven for a landing platform for machinery and supplies, shipped often around the Horn. The first steel was laid at Rupert in 1908. The centre had a population of 200 living in tents. There were three canvas settlements. Knoxville, Baconville and Vickersville.

Churches went up in 1907 and 1908, the Anglicans beating the Methodists and Catholics, who still met in tents. A school was established and two small hotels. Ten businesses were established, including the newspaper, The Empire. First sale of lots was in 1909. The town was incorporated and elected its first council under Mayor Alfred Stark in 1910.

TOO ROUGH

But the route of the railway along the Skeena was so rough, there were still no trains. The first train didn't arrive until April 5, 1914. Meanwhile sternwheelers plied the river, and in June, 1910, the Grand Trunk Pacific Steamship Company placed Prince Rupert on the shipping route then serving Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle. Fishing, lumbering, mining and latterly a celanese plant, contributed to Prince Rupert's livelihood. But its potential world wide trade routes has never yet been fully utilized.

Port Simpson, an Indian village on the Tsimpsan Peninsula, 25 miles north of Prince Rupert, lost out when the railway chose Prince Rupert. Port Simpson had been the site of an H.B.C. fort as early as 1834—nine years before the founding of Port Victoria.

There was no Indian settlement

New Collection To B.C. Shown By Art Gallery In Victoria

Selections from a hitherto unpublished collection of Canadian and European paintings will be featured as the art gallery's major exhibition this summer.

Scheduled to open August 4 and to remain on view till September 14, the show will comprise 73 paintings from the collection of Ernest R. Poole and family, of Edmonton. Probably the largest assemblage of Canadian painting, public or private, to be found west of Ottawa, it has been collected by Mr. Poole and his sons over the past 40 years. When Mr. Poole, a leading Edmon-

EDITORS BELIEVE ROYAL VISITS ARE WELL RECEIVED

Most of Canada's weekly newspaper editors believe that Royal visits are welcomed with enthusiasm by the people in their communities.

This was evidenced by a poll of delegates attending the 40th annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at Regina July 15-17.

Asked if they felt people in their communities were enthusiastic, indifferent or antagonistic about Royal visits 50 editors rated their communities' attitude as enthusiastic, 35 as indifferent and none felt there was antagonism.

Fifty-three editors felt that people in rural areas were more interested in a Royal visit such as the current tour of Her Majesty and Prince Philip than residents of large cities. But 21 felt that rural and smalltown people were less interested in the visits and 18 considered there was no difference between city and country people's attitude towards the visits.

Many editors were disturbed about being asked to comment on the subject and said they felt that too much publicity had been given to the controversial aspects of the Royal Family's visit to Canada.

Veterans' Column

The Old Sweat

By DOUG SMITH

There was a time when I used to envy the wallahs who ran the show. I figured them for a bunch of smart boys who had plenty of money, lots of time on their hands, and let others do all the work. I don't think that way any more.

My change of thought happened back in 1911 when I was delegated as a special courier to carry a message to Anthony Eden, then the Foreign Secretary.

It was a pleasant Sunday morning when I arrived at the Foreign Secretary's office, which overlooked St. James Park. He wasn't there, I was told. He was spending the Sabbath at his country home in Sussex.

Just as I figured. The high-priced brass spent their week-ends working in the country, while the working servicemen carried the load for them.

Hightailing it to Sussex in my jeep, I located his gracious country home. No, the Foreign Secretary could not see me; he was very busy. Yes, I could wait and take my turn to deliver my message. Finally I was ushered through. Again I figured right. He wasn't in his office, he was sunning himself in his garden. It was then that I took a second look.

ON THEIR KNEES

Eden was there, O.K., and with him was a friend. The friend turned out to be no less than John Gilbert Winant, the American ambassador to the U.K.

And what were the two great men doing? Having tea and crumpets? Goldbricking on the job? Far from it. The two statesmen were down on their hands and knees weeding Mr. Eden's garden.

As they came to the end of each

(Friday Harbor Journal)

I am 16 and have owned a car since two months after I got my license. Some people might hesitate to call it a car, but to me it means more than any other thing in the world. It gives me a feeling of power and supremacy I can't enjoy anywhere else. Walking down the street in the daytime I'm embarrassed if I have to look people straight in the eye, but when I get in my car at night I can drive down that same street and feel equal and even superior to anybody.

That was before last night. Now I know that I'll never touch the wheel again. You see, last night I killed my father.

It was just an average, run of the mill night, like any other night in Friday Harbor. I came home from work at 5.15 to find Mom wouldn't be home for supper again. It was the bridge club this time, or was it something else. Dad was sitting in the living room watching the Wednesday night fights with a half empty beer can in his hand and three more laying on the floor beside him.

I fried some hamburger and took some bread and peanut butter out of the cupboard. I really wasn't very hungry anyway. Pop left a little bit later slamming the front door behind him. His fighter had lost and now he would have to pay another five to his pal at the tavern.

I started to watch some crummy western on TV and heard a couple of cars go by and honk and then there was a squeal of tires as they rounded the corner. The TV wasn't getting any better so I decided to take a drive. Two minutes later I pulled up at Curt's house and laid on the horn three times. By the time I got turned around, my best friend had emerged from the house and he dropped into the front seat.

We drove up to the water tank and then down around the water-front five or six times and I could see right away that this night was going to be like all the rest. During the next couple of hours we made three stops at the drive-in to get something to eat, but mostly we just drove around and talked. We both told each other for the millionth time what we were going to do when we got off the rock and just how rotten a place it was and how we wished there was something to do. Sam was making his usual rounds and we made a few cracks about him and how he could never catch us if he ever really had to because we knew the roads so well we could lose him in five minutes and besides he always was on foot anyway.

We both had to work in the morning so we decided to take one more spin down past the Coast Guard shack and then head home. I guess we were going pretty fast when we came down the main street and past the bank—I can't be sure—it's all kind of hazy now. Anyway, I remember Curt screamed as a figure staggered from the sidewalk in the middle of that black right into our path. I slammed on the brakes and the pedal went straight to the floor. I guess the cable probably broke. It was one I had replaced from an old wreck we found at the dump and it must have been pretty old before I got it.

The next thing I can remember, we hit something awfully hard and then there were a lot of people gathering around a figure lying in the middle of the street. It was my Dad. He was dead.

WHERE ARE THOSE GIRLS?

They've Gone To The Big City

As if they didn't have enough troubles with such things as the weather, over production and mounting costs, Canada's farmers have another modern-day worry: Girls. The lack of them.

Dr. Helen C. Abell, rural sociologist with the Canada Department of Agriculture, says that free and compulsory education and other far-reaching economic and social change have brought about some new aspects of rural life.

One phenomenon is that in some areas of Canada there is a scarcity of unmarried women—a cause of concern not only to bachelors but to community organizations and activities. Thousands of young rural women are obtaining the training and education which fits them for work and professions in urban centres.

Dr. Abell points out that 80 out of 100 Canadians were rural dwellers. In 1956, this figure had shrunk to 33 out of 100 and of these only about half were actually living on farms.

As Canada grows in population and industry, the proportion of rural people is getting smaller.

Although there are fewer farms each year, the average number of acres per farm is increasing and this keeps the total amount of land under cultivation almost constant. With many agricultural products, Canada produces more than can be eaten at home.

What does it all mean? For one thing, says Dr. Abell, it means that fewer and fewer farmers are able to supply more and more non-farmers with essential food and fibre.

The "hired girl" is practically non-existent and the hired man is no longer found on many farms. Average number of people in each row, secretaries waited with despatch boxes containing messages. The two then dictated their replies, took countless telephone calls on "scrambler" telephones, and issued instructions to be relayed to all parts of the world.

This business completed, they calmly continued with their wedding and concerned themselves with problems of aphids, slugs, beetles and potato blight.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE.

Q. When a bride has received a gift from the office force, consisting of perhaps a dozen employees, how should she acknowledge it?

A. She may write a personal letter of thanks to the chief clerk, office manager, or the person she knows had charge of the contribution towards the gift, asking this person to thank the others.

Q. What is the meaning of "cafe au lait", and how is it pronounced?

A. "Coffee with hot milk", pronounced kaff-lay-oh-lay.

Q. Should a girl of 18 rise when being introduced to a man of 60?

A. Yes, always, and also to a woman of 60.

Q. Should a hostess provide new cards for use at a bridge party?

A. If the cards she has are not perfectly clean and smooth, she should furnish new ones.

it will be possible for us to more fully appreciate the important role of the farm family as a vital element in the population of Canada.

Russia Holds No Appeal To Native Now Living in Sidney

There is nothing in Russia to attract a Canadian, even though he was born in that country. Ewald Jabs looks back on 19 years of life in Russia and likes little that he sees. Proprietor of the Tudor China Shop in Sidney, Mr. Jabs has seen despair and desolation twice overtake his family. Today he only knows that his parents died of starvation and that his brothers have been swallowed up by the administration to suffer an unknown fate.

Mr. Jabs was born in 1909 in Russia, of German parents, who were well-to-do prior to the First World War. When the war came Ewald and his parents were deprived of all their possessions and shipped to the country.

Following the war the family returned home. Shortly after, the Russian revolution took place and left them without a roof over their heads.

The family was later given a small plot of land and left to fend for themselves. The family, left to their own, decided they would try their hand as blacksmiths and made a shop of earth sods. They worked hard and managed to fight off the hunger suffered by their neighbors. Ewald and his brother in 1926 made bits for drills and through this effort saved enough to pay his way to Canada.

DEPRESSION
In 1928 Mr. Jabs arrived in Canada and found himself trying to find a job with the depression starting. He obtained a job at Roland, Man., making $5 a month plus his board in the winter and $30 a month during the summer. He related that he managed to save a little on the meagre wage, only due to the fact that he had to take his employer to court to obtain his wages.

Port Alberni was the next stop on Mr. Jabs' quest for jobs. He obtained a position with a sawmill working nights for three-and-a-half years. During the daytime he built himself a house. He took to carpentry then set out as a contractor, building 10 homes of old army huts.

It was in 1949 that he married his wife, Mary, who operated a coffee shop. Mr. Jabs tried his hand at the coffee shop business, then turned to a partnership in a foundry at Port Alberni. The couple moved to Campbell River in 1951 for a year and then to Victoria, where he worked as a contractor for three years.

Mr. Jabs purchased the property of Tudor China on Beacon Ave. with the idea of improving the property and then selling. It was just an investment relates Mr. Jabs. "Then we became interested in china and glassware".

They have now expanded so that both Mr. and Mrs. Jabs and two girls are employed operating the two shops on Beacon Ave. Mr. Jabs has also purchased property on Lockside Drive which he hopes at a future date to develop into a motel.

TAKEN AND SHOT

Recalling what took place after he left Russia, the former refugee said the Russian troops came and took everything away from his family and as a result his parents died of hunger. One night in 1936 his two brothers were taken away and what became of them he does not know. He has been told they were sent to Siberia and also that they were shot. In those days all German men were taken from their families and the women left to fend for themselves. His two younger half brothers were taken into the army and both lost their lives in the war. He still has a half sister in Russia from whom he has heard only once, her lot was not a happy one.

Another sister managed to reach Germany in the last war and married. Her husband has a business in West Germany manufacturing eyeglass frames which are exported to all parts of the world. They are living a very comfortable life com-

Bank Sees Good Recovery In Canadian Business In 1959

Canadian business recovery has been following an encouraging pattern during the first half of 1959, according to the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for July, just issued.

"In contrast to a year ago, when the initial evidences of strength were spotty, the buoyancy of economic activity this year has been on a gratifyingly broad front," the B of M review states.

The gross national product, for the first three months off the year, was running at an annual rate of $33.4 billion, which was 2.1 per cent above the preceding quarter and about four per cent more than the average for 1958, the B of M observes.

However, the rise in national output has not been entirely uniform throughout the economy, the review says, pointing out that the recovery has been led by higher consumer spending.

While durable goods accounted mainly for the upturn during the first quarter, there were also larger outlays for services and non-durable goods. Total consumer outlays rose by 3.2 per cent in the last three months of 1958 and by a further two per cent in the first quarter of 1959.

PERSONAL INCOME UP
"Supporting the higher level of consumer spending was a further increase in personal income which, after payment of direct taxes, rose to an annual rate of $23.2 billion, Caffeine is medically a stimulant to respiration and circulation.

Fish Caught at Derby Is Major Catch of Area

Strong winds and rough choppy water kept many fishermen away from their favorite fish areas even though sunny and warm conditions prevailed recently.

At Cowichan Bay and Sansum Narrows fair fishing was reported although effort was reduced as a result of strong winds and rough water. Forty per cent of the boats had no catches. Most springs were landed in the early morning on herding strip and averaged 10 pounds.

In Mill Bay and at the entrance to Saanich Inlet, large grilse are reported plentiful and have provided fair fishing in this area, particularly in the early morning. Grilse were averaging two pounds with springs up to 15 pounds landed.

$550 million more than in the final quarter of 1958," the bank says.

"In contrast to last year, when larger transfer payments and lower taxes contributed to the major portion of the rise in disposable income, the impetus to the increase this year has come entirely from earned income, which rose by 3.5 per cent as a result of higher levels of both employment and average wages," the review points out.

An equally important factor contributing to the rise in national output was a resumption of inventory accumulation, in contrast to substantial reductions of stocks in the first half of 1958.

In Saanich Inlet, considerable fishing effort was concentrated, with nearly 300 boats counted. Fair fishing resulted with most fishermen fishing deep with minnows and plugs. Springs taken averaged 12 pounds, jack springs four pounds, coho six pounds and grilse two pounds. The recent Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association Scullery Derby brought in a total of 225 salmon weighing over three pounds. J. Smith's 30 pound 14 ounce spring took first prize, while second prize went to W. Hoskyn with a 28 pound 4 ounce spring.
